Parish Hall.

Tommy Kidd, president of the group, introduced Dave Johnson, moderator. Johnson introduced supervisors Russell Elliott, president of the board; Dolph Kellar, A.J. 'Peck' Maufay, Joe Cuevas and C.A. Russ, III, and Dr. A. K. Martinolich, two of four complainants in a law suit requesting redistricting of the county, first filed almost six years ago.

Johnson explained that no one was invited to the session to 'be put on the spot', limited speakers to four minutes each and showed maps of the county giving figures in regards to population distribution, miles of roads and bridges and tax revenues realized from each of the five beats.

He also explained the powers of board members as they control levying of taxes, holding of elections, expenditures including those of the sheriff's office, make appointments to boards such as the Port and Harbor, hospital, Pearl River Basin, etc. He also pointed out that selection of those to serve on juries is up to the supervisors.

Dr. Martinolich and Glass discussed their suit stressing the fact that they felt the county out of balance with heavily populated beat 5 carrying most of the tax burden, yet having less voice in electing officials than a voter in the smallest beat. Dr. Martinolich mentioned that at one time when Kiln and Logtown were thriving lumber towns distribution of property was probably much more reasonable.

Glass stated that the Mississippi court had ordered redistricting and wanted to know 'why not do it now?' Adding that Harrison County had done as with apparent success.

Each supervisor spoke briefly and each in his own way said they saw the necessity of reapportionment, but seemed to prefer at large voting to actual redistricting. Elliott said that they had purposely moved slowly as once they made a decision, it could not be law by remedied for two years.

A number of questions from the floor brought out the fact that under new state law only three supervisors need to agree on an appropriate plan or that a request could come by petition of 20 percent of the voters.

As the meeting ended Glass and Martinolich said they felt as stated in their suit: 'that all of the people should speak with a proper, legal and equal vote—one man, one vote, plus having districts of equal size in regard to population.'

SEEK INDUSTRY FUNDS

Port Director Charles Hill, Russell Elliott, president of the board of supervisors, and C.A. Russ, III, vice-president, are in Jackson today to meet with governmental agencies to seek funds to be made available for loans to industries interested in locating on port and airport sites.

OPS-CORRECTION

To correct a mistake in last week's board of supervisors story, Supervisor Dolph Kellar made a motion which C.A. Russ seconded to instruct Port Director Charles Hill and attorney to look into railroad plans and specifications submitted by Michael Balow, Inc., and make a report of findings.

Kellar only abstained on voting to appoint the firm of Fromherz to begin industrial site engineering duties.

Hancock Votes for Wallace As Nixon, Humphrey Trail

Bids are Opened for Airport Access Road

Two sealed bids were opened Monday by the Hancock Port and Harbor Board for work on the access road leading off highway 603 into the area of the new Hancock airport facility.

Firms submitting bids for the project, which will consist of a one mile asphalt paving job on a two lane road, were Gulf Paving of Gulfport and Yates and Patterson Construction Co., Inc. of Jackson.

Yates and Patterson were low bidder with a bid of $97,543.00, with the firm Gulf Paving with a bid of $98,463.36. Engineers for that particular phase of the airport project estimated the cost for the construction of the access road to be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Gulf Paving estimated that it would take 200 calendar days to complete the road, while Yates and Patterson estimated 180 days for the project.

According to engineers present the proper seasonal weather conditions would have to exist next spring would be the proper time to work on this road.

Those present at Monday's meeting were: Charles Hill, Hancock port and harbor director; Elliot Casanova, board member; Mayor John Scalfide, board member; Gerald Gex, local attorney; Gus Elmer, board member; and Louis Breaux, board member.

Hancock County followed Bay 144-123.

The only runoff will be for Beat 5 election commissioner between Alvin Genii who had 3,017 more votes than his closest runner-up, Richard Nixon, Wallace tallied 4,072 to Nixon's 1,065 while Democratic candidate Hubert Humphrey trailed with 904.

This was quite a switch from the 1964 election when Goldwater carried this traditionally Democratic County.

Veteran congressman William (Bill) Colmer and Tom P. Brady, candidate for Supreme Court judge from the second district, walked in handily as they were only opposed by a handful of write-ins, two being cast for John Doe.

The 'aginers' had their day defeating both the constitutional amendment and the library bond issue by an overwhelming ratio.

The library carried only two of 27 boxes, winning in Central School by 136-115 and in North

MTF Exceeds CAC Goal

The slogan is "89 in 69" and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Mississippi Test Facility has already exceeded its goal of $89,000 for the 1968 Combined Agencies Campaign.

Jackson M. Balch, Manager of MTF and CAC General Chairman, along with representatives of all organizations on site, heard C. G. Allen, Director of North American Rockwell Corp., and Drive Chairman for 1968, report that MTF had exceeded its goal and had collected $90,534.83 during the first two weeks.

Also going out to help were Charles Broth Jr. and Arthur Torry.

The P-TA Halloween Carnival was very successful. A goal had been set for five hundred dollars, but even that was passed. The original balance was $772.58 and after the bills were paid out for drinks, food and miscellaneous a clear balance of $650.57 was turned over to the P-TA secretary, Bobby Baxter, for deposit in the P-TA account. As stated in an earlier issue, 50 percent of the proceeds from the Carnival will go to Mr. Kirkland for the football team and things that the individual classrooms need. The other 50 percent will remain in the P-TA general fund.

Carnival chairman Ruth (Mrs. Ned) Davis expressed her sincere thanks to all those who gave donations and to the ones who helped with the preparations. Though you are too numerous to mention individually we hope that you will bask in the knowledge that you helped to make a very worthy cause successful.

Very special thanks is also due to Father McDonald, James Randall and Rev. John Wardle. They supplied the much needed help that the Building Chairman needed to put up lights and to build the booths.

Next week we will supply the names of all the people who won prizes.

Get well wishes go to Pete Walker who entered the Crosby Memorial Hospital in Picayune last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Huey Fayard and children visited with Mr. and Mrs. James Holden last Sunday. The Fayards are residents of New Orleans.

Marietta Wyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wyman, celebrated her 18th birthday on October 30. A host of her friends helped in the celebration at a party which had a Halloween theme.

Mrs. Dan Ladner and her daughter Mrs. Ray Brady of Forest Hill, La., visited over the weekend with relatives and friends in this area. They also visited with Mrs. Ladner's daughter, Capt. Goldie Ladner who lives in Biloxi, and is stationed at Keesler Air Force Base.

St. Rose Sponsors Teacher Workshop

St. Rose de Lima School sponsored an Art Workshop for the elementary and pre-school teachers of the area on Friday evening, October 25, and Saturday, October 26. The Workshop, organized by Sister James, S. S. N., Principal of St. Rose de Lima School, was conducted by Sister M. Luke, Jordan, S.S.N.D., Art Consultant for the Mississippi Catholic Schools.

The program began on Friday afternoon at 4:00 with an orientation session consisting of movies on paper mache, mask making, and crayon work. Sister Luke also had on display many lovely art pieces done by children in Mississippi schools as examples and sources of inspiration for the workshop participants. The high point of the afternoon, however, was the experimentation session when all had a chance to try their hand at creative self-expression. Among the art pieces emerging from this first session were "paper mache" animulines and animals, masks, figures in cloth, and crayon resist pictures.

The workshop was resumed on Saturday morning with another orientation session consisting of movies on paper construction and collage and a demonstration given by Sister Luke. Sister's topic was How to teach Art Appreciation at various levels. This was followed by another experimentation period in paper, construction and collage, using cloth, paper, or magazine pictures.

Two more movies on print making and on puppets provided the motivation for Saturday afternoon's session lasting from 1:00 to 4:00.

Sister Luke's enthusiasm and that of the participants, along with the beautiful displays and wealth of materials available to work with, made the Art Workshop an enriching experience for all who attended.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

We, the undersigned, NORMAN AND YVONNE BENIGNO, take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to the Bay St. Louis City Police Department, to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, and the Mississippi State Highway Patrol for the efficient manner in which they handled the events in reference to the robbery of the package liquor store owned by the undersigned on Friday night, October 26, 1968. Without the cooperation of the above law enforcement officers, it is doubtful that the criminals would have been apprehended, which was accomplished within a maximum of forty-five (45) minutes from the time that my store was robbed. We wish to thank also the many friends who inquired about the welfare of Norman Benigno and who offered their assistance. Again, we sincerely thank all of you.

State New Beasts 61 Public Airports

The fastest and most modern vehicle used in general transportation today is the airplane, and Mississippi ranks well above average among states with a specific, long-range program for aviation development; and this program is moving forward at an orderly pace. Today, the state boasts of 61 public airports, with every municipality except one with 17,000 population having airline service.

Mississippi's first public airports were developed by larger cities in the late 1920s and 1930s, mostly sod landing fields with limited service and hangar facilities. In 1936, the national bureau of air service listed 18 public airports in the state, with seven intermediate fields. The WPA in the depression 30s helped develop more landing strips, but development was slow until World War II. Mississippi has had an unusual number of outstanding aviators. Besides the Key brothers of Meridian, there is the famous Colonel Roscoe Turner of Corinth; the Atkinson family of Aberdeen for whom the famous Stinson airplane was named; the late Lt. Eugene H. Barksdale of Goshen Springs of Rankin County, for whom Barksdale Field at Shreveport is named; and the late Commander George Anderson of Holly Springs, one of Richard E. Byrd's pilots to the South Pole.

Today, flying, both for pleasure and business, is on the increase in Mississippi. The state's terrain, climate, and geographical location, place her in a favored position for continued growth in the field in the years ahead, even into the space age since one of the nation's top rocket booster testing centers is the Mississippi Test Facility on the Gulf Coast.

Won't be long before live shrimp will be gone according to Herbert Cardin. They are getting scarcer and scarcer, he claims. Herb has been catching a bunch of flounders at the end of the seawall, down Cedar Point way. He showed us a couple of soft crabs caught in his trap. They shed all winter in deep water.

Hard crabs are being caught up Jordan River just now. A couple of nets and fish heads will do the trick for catching them.

Understand that Charles Cantrell has been catching plenty of large speckles out in the marshes. Charlie is enjoying his boat with his friends. An old timer at fishing, he knows how and where to get 'em.

EDDIE MARQUEZ does some fishing but we think that son crabbing and floundering are his chief sports. Eddie can be seen up late most any night. He gets his share, too. Fish fries are frequent events at his lounge on the beach.

Took a picture of a six and one-half pound flounder caught by Eddie Poyadon in his cast net. Exceptionally large flounders are being caught at this time. A floundering trip will pay off and it's a lot of fun.

Notre Dame Slaughters Bay High in High Fashion

Kenny Lyons went all the way for Notre Dame and set a school touchdown scoring record as he led his team to a 7-6 victory over the Bay High Tigers.

Lyons threw touchdown passes 20 to his favorite receiver, end Stephen Brauchle, just before the first quarter ended to break the old record of 19 set by Vincent King in 1959. Later in the second period Lyons made it 21 when he hit Carl Hanshaw on a 17-yard scoring play.

The win was number five for the Rebels of Coach Charles Hedgewood. Notre Dame has lost two games to Gulfport High and Ocean Springs. The Bay High Tigers are now 2-7.

Lyons completed 12 of 19 passes for 210 yards and two touchdowns and opened the scoring with a five-yard scamper to pay dirt midway in the first period.

Notre Dame broke the game open in the third quarter by scoring four times.

Wingback Michael Mayfield began the blitz with a 12-yard burst and tackle Arthur Bousquet kicked his first successful extra point.

A few minutes later fullback Bruce Nourse went over from the one after the Rebels got field position on a pass interception by Dan Moore.

Brauchle tallied the third score of the quarter with just over four minutes left on a three-yard rush and Nourse went over from three yards out with just over two minutes left, as the Rebels led 49-6 at the end of the period.

In the final stanza Mayfield picked up his second touchdown on a 29-yard reverse and Brauchle closed out the touchdown parade with a three-yard buck, Bousquet successfully kicked both points after for a 57-6 Rebel victory.

Notre Dame closes out its home season next Saturday night when it plays host to the Harrison Central Red Rebels in Gulf Coast conference play at 7:30 o'clock.

Loyola Fieldhouse Scene of Bucs - Houston Game

After a quick trip to Miami yesterday, the New Orleans Buccaneers return to the friendly confines of Loyola Fieldhouse Thursday night when they open an eight-game home stand against the Houston Marvins.

The "Father-Son Night" tilt will be the second home game of the young season for the defending Western Division champs who lost to Oakland at home two weeks ago before winning three of four on the road.

The Bucs accomplished a team first by winning three straight road games and spoiling consecutive home openers for Houston (115-105), Oakland (124-119) and Los Angeles (112-109). A paltry 25-for-45 showing on the free throw line led to a 108-104 downfall at Los Angeles Saturday night and preceded a sweep of the four road games.

Steve and James Jones hold the team scoring lead after five games. Steve has a 24.5 average and James a 24.2 mark and the Jones boys have combined for 243 points and a 48.6 average.

Coach Babe McCarthy, though disappointed over losing Saturday's game on the foul line in Los Angeles, is well satisfied with his team's progress at the five-game stage.

"I'll settle for three out of four on the road anytime," McCarthy said, "and the win at Oakland was especially sweet. It will be great to be playing at home for awhile and if we continue to improve like I think we will, our fans are in for some real exciting entertainment."

PRC Loses Heartbreaker to No. 1 Jones

The Pearl River Junior College Wildcats will end the 1968 season with a trip to Hinds Saturday night.

The Wildcats now have a 4-4 season record after a heart-breaking 28-18 loss to number 1 ranked Jones on November 2.

Jones scored twice in the first quarter with Quarterback David Abercrombie passing for 70 yards to Lynn Horne to the 1. Horne then crashed over from there. Abercrombie then connected with Richard Thoms for
